BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP

Established in 1893, the National Council of Jewish Women (NCJW) Pittsburgh Section is America’s oldest Jewish volunteer organization. Benefits of membership include:

- association with a non-profit organization that has an outstanding reputation in Pittsburgh and beyond for its many non-sectarian community service projects;
- a fun, exciting and powerful way to have a voice on issues that affect women, children and families;
- a vehicle to give back to the community at your pace, with other women who share your vision;
- an outlet for your personal and professional skills or interests that might not be expressed in other areas of your life; and
- communications pieces that keep you updated on NCJW advocacy efforts, programs, services, and special events!
